

I went to my MP to discuss this but he was arrogant and clearly had no understanding of the implications. Like the renewable energy and Northern Ireland protocol it was clear that neither he nor his colleagues had read the proposed legislation let alone considered it. I have resigned from General Practice in Northern Ireland where I work for an enlightened authority. You should all do the same and move somewhere you are appreciated. I even get a birthday card from the board on my birthday. It's a different world where people try to help and facilitate your work. Until you have tried the alternatives you won't appreciate just how badly you are treated in Northern Ireland. Why on earth GPs are still working here baffles me. The criminal sanctions are just Northern Ireland. Vote with your feet and move to a better GP contract and a government that supports doctors. I got out . Try not to be the last man standing and get out now. This legislation is the final nail in the coffin for General Practice in Northern Ireland .
